INTRODUCTION

This document provides a detailed look into the Gamma Fitness App's System Design and structure, breaking down how our system will function on a technical level and offering direction for further development and implementation. Built upon the work completed during the analysis phase, this document includes our design level class diagrams, which elaborate on our system's classes, attributes, methods, and operations using pseudo code. Our statecharts demonstrate how our objects react to specific events, while our sequence diagrams show the ways in which different parts of our system interact across use cases.
